

Poetic Living: The Mind of Young America

by Daniel Moses

In Poetic Living Daniel Moses offers us a slender volume of verse and sayings that were created during his junior high school years. Written in a simple, straightforward style, his work presents his thoughts and feelings on a variety of subjects including the changing seasons and the faraway places he has read about.

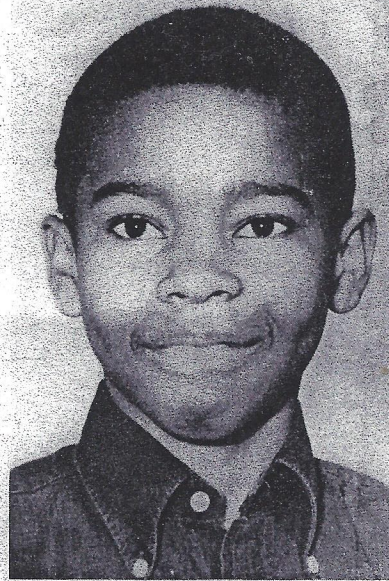

American history, particularly the events and people that were involved in our nation's birth, is of special interest to Moses. His love of America's past is evident when he deals with such subjects as Benjamin Franklin, Andrew Jackson, the Louisiana Purchase, and even Louisa May Alcott.

The second section of the book contains several cautionary verses concerning such issues as being successful and getting a job.

In his final section he offers a series of short proverbial pieces that indicate his grasp of the complexities of life.

About the Author

Daniel Moses, who now lives in Columbia, South Carolina, graduated from Butler High School in 1973 and from Coker College in 1978. He represented the United States in Concert Abroad along with the Butler High School Chorus in Graz, Austria, in 1972 and has also travelled in Canada and Mexico.

He is currently a member of the International Platform Association and, before that, was a member of the Michigan Poet Society and Bardic Echoes.

Order from your bookseller or from:
dmoses1204@gmail.com Cell: 904-662-3558	217 Hickory Knoll Road Columbia, SC 29203
Please send me _____ copies of Poetic Living: The Mind of Young America by Daniel Moses. I am enclosing $4.50 per copy ordered.
<input type="checkbox"/> Check enclosed	<input type="checkbox"/> BankAmericard
<input type="checkbox"/> Master Charge	Card-issuing Bank Name _____
Expir. Date _____	Card Number _____
Signature _____
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____
STATE _____	ZIP _____

publish my first book after appearing at I PA in 1977 (Leadership: Lowell Thomas)