Get ready, America! Here comes Adele Landauer, whose experience, insight, confidence and charm encourage everyone she meets to tear down walls.

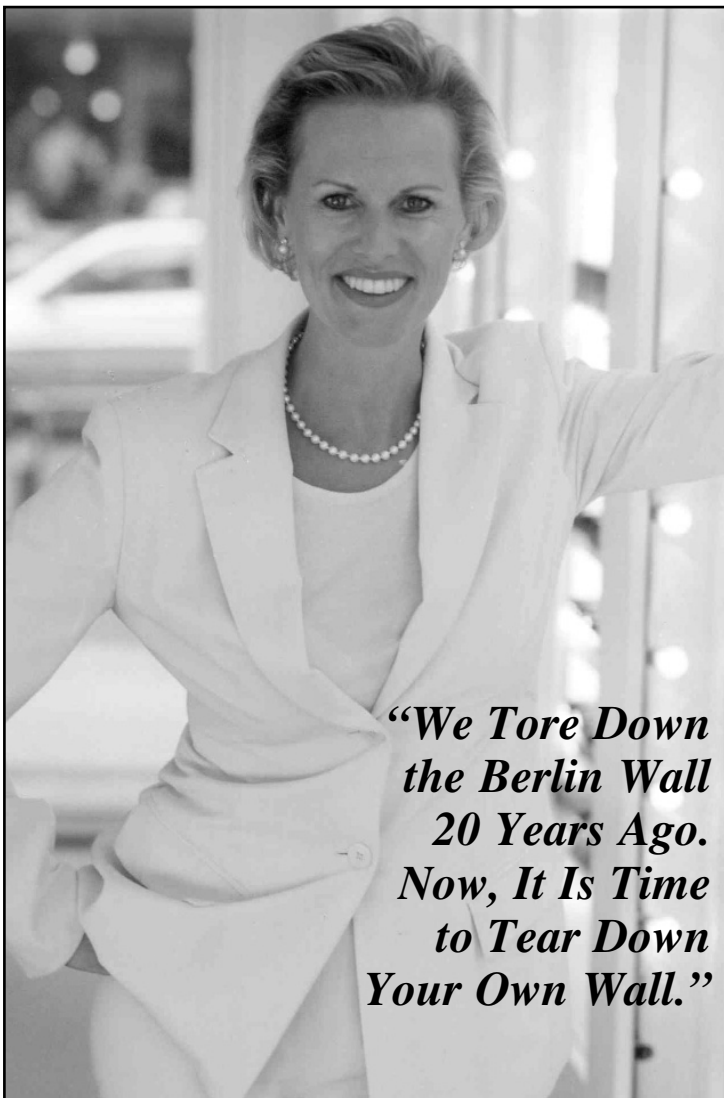

Adele Landauer is a well-known German keynote speaker, personal coach and author. Her professional and direct perspective – along with her womanly, empathic radiance – allows her to deliver substantive, unforgettable presentations clearly, passionately and with great affection. She delivers dynamic keynotes which inspire, motivate and entertain each member of her audience. Adele – already a household name in Germany – teaches business executives, politicians and other leaders media and social skills that advance their careers.

“Just as the Germans tore down the Berlin Wall, you can tear down your own!” says Adele, who lives in Berlin, “where a wall was torn down – overnight.” What she experienced was not only a wall being broken down physically, but millions of people who were able to tear down their own walls inside themselves and reconsider a new way of life together. They were able to let them go within one night. This momentous occasion showed Adele that everything in life is surmountable – even the once impassable Berlin Wall.

Her message inspires others to tear down their own walls and face the contradictions within themselves. Her dramatic re-telling of recent German and European history, where sublime beauty and horrific tragedy revealed the light and dark sides of humanity, hits home intellectually, emotionally and spiritually.

Adele has been featured in such publications as Berliner Morgenpost, Handelsblatt, Manager Magazine, Euro Magazine, Lufthansa Magazine and Die WELT, where she penned her own column.
