

Organizational Futurist

Larry Mandelberg STRATEGIC PLANNING

With more than 30 years experience as CEO and consultant, Larry Mandelberg has been called both an organizational futurist and non-recovering serial entrepreneur. He has launched four start-ups, led a merger and performed a successful turnaround.

Mandelberg has published more than 40 articles and has a monthly column in the Sacramento Business Journal. He is a student of organizational lifecycles and has developed a system to help business owners create sustainable growth. He has been a guest on television and radio programs talking about business and entrepreneurship.

In his consulting practice, Mandelberg provides strategic planning, leadership development, executive coaching and ethics training to mid-sized organizations and their boards in a broad range of industries from television to scientific research.

In addition to his consulting practice, he also serves as the board chair for Innovative Education Management, a $40-million, not-for-profit charter school management firm.

Powerful Topics That Mandelberg Presents:

- 3 secret ingredients for leadership stew . . . and how to cook 'em
- Where are our leaders? Recognizing potential and developing greatness
- Why leaders fail and what to do about it
- 7 steps to effective delegation for managers
- How healthy organizations become ill, and what to do before they become terminal

“Larry saved me a year’s salary... It was a wonderful experience.”

-- Fritz Durst, board chairman, Reclamation District 108
