R. H. Wohl & Associates, Inc.

Management Consultants to Government and Business

Communication is the life blood that powers an organization and the glue that holds it together. Only when management strategy and controls reach every part of the organization will workers know the vision of senior management and understand institutional memory and best practices of their organization. Only with sufficient direction and motivation will they avoid doing the same old things they used to do in the same old way, moving in the direction they think they should . . . rather than the direction senior management wants to take the organization. Only when organizational goals and objectives are met will management succeed.

We can help right the ship of state, introduce accurate and effective plain English communications and motivate managers and workers to move the organization to success.

Ronald H. Wohl, a certified management consultant and an applied psychological anthropologist, is the president and founder of R. H. Wohl & Associates, Inc. Wohl developed strong, strategic alliances with outstanding individuals proven in their field, who know how to listen and communicate, who are members of the Institute of Management Consultants, as well as other prestigious organizations, who understand managers' need for speed to understand organizational symptoms, characterize their problem and devise solid solutions. R.H. Wohl & Associates, Inc. consults to Fortune 1000 businesses and large government agencies. Its management communication practice -- known throughout the world as In Plain English® -- specializes in management communications and effective internal communication strategies. They can help find and implement clear, consistent, efficient and strategic solutions for your difficult problems.
