There's Power In The Pact

(Washington, DC) - Mastermind groups are great for people looking to learn more about self-confidence, effective leadership, or determining what's next. The Power of The Pact is a new private membership, mastermind, and online community where people meet to gain insights, set goals, overcome challenges and make real progress.

"Vulnerability lies at the heart of why masterminds work, says Angela Dingle, Power of the Pact visionary and facilitator. "Being vulnerable requires an understanding that we're not the expert at everything. We need the input and insights from members who have 'been there and done that' to accelerate our personal or professional growth," Dingle went on to say.

While masterminds have been around for quite a while, finding (or forming) the right group is essential to the outcome each participant receives. The Power of the Pact provides participants:

- Leadership assessments, reports and tools, access to an online business planning and performance system, and much more!
- Every month a group of professionals who are looking to take their professional or personal brand to the next level meet with a Power of the Pact facilitator.
- Members help each other identify challenges, set strategic goals, and hold each other accountable for success.
- You meet one-on-one with a Facilitator each month to review your business plan, performance objectives and to help you achieve your goals even faster.
- Each month you get access to a new self-paced, e-learning course that is focused on a selected area of development (e.g., goal setting, leadership, time management, etc.)

Power of The Pact members also receive exclusive access to the Power Reads Book Club, Subscription into Power Pact Private Online Community, plus One-on-One Coaching. To find out if you're a good candidate or to learn more visit: <https://powerpact.lpages.co/power-pact/>
