Leading Local nonprofit reducing the digital divide receives significant grant.

www.teamchildren.org has been bolstered by a substantial financial donation from the Richard and Heidi Brown Family Foundation. This significant grant, as founder Robert Toporek explains, is a crucial step towards our summer goal of distributing over 500 low-cost, high-quality, refurbished laptops. This initiative will benefit families, schools, organizations, veterans, and anyone in need, making a tangible impact on our mission to bridge the digital divide.

SEI's generous donation of laptops has equipped Teamchildren with over 500 low-cost, high-quality refurbished laptops ready to be distributed to new homes. The refurbishment process was a powerful demonstration of community collaboration, with a diverse group of volunteers, ranging from senior citizens to high school students, coming together to reload Windows and Office 10 and add invaluable learning links and programs.

With these programs, our learning modules cater to anyone, regardless of age. From babies to senior citizens, everyone can learn anything with the click of a mouse. www.brillkids.com has generously donated over $750,000 to support our three learning modules: Little Reader, Little Math, and Little Musician. This diverse range of programs ensures that our initiatives are inclusive and accessible to all.

Over the past twenty-plus years, throughout the Delaware Valley, across the nation, and worldwide, we have distributed over 25,000 refurbished computers to families, veterans, organizations, schools, and anyone in need. Imagine the transformative effect of a child in Kenya, Ghana, or Ukraine, who previously had no access to a computer, now sitting at their desk, exploring the world of knowledge. Imagine the face of our recipients and families doing their homework, researching social services, or staying in touch with family and friends, all thanks to the distributed computers.

The laptops we distribute give families and their children the tools, training, and opportunities to advance their academic, economic, social, and physical development.

We have also mentored over 500 teens, teaching them the importance of early childhood development and how to run a grassroots nonprofit, including taking out the trash, doing educational research, setting goals, communicating, and being a leader while working with a team. Many of these teens have gone on to great colleges and are now out in the world making a difference in their own way.

Our book www.handsonparenting.com, a natural guide to happier, healthier, smarter babies, children, and parents, is being read worldwide.

Our eBook on www.miltonolive.org The first African American awarded the Medal of Honor in the Vietnam War is also making a difference.

Soon, we will publish an eBook, "Letters from the Vietnam War."
